

San Francisco Unified School District

A Case Study in Community Support

In November 2012 all of the computers from the lab at the International Studies Academy in San Francisco were stolen.

Mark Crafts and the sfBIG organization has worked with Computers for Classrooms in the past to supply San Francisco Unified with computer systems. One of the sfBIG members stepped up to supply funding for the expenses of setting up the new lab. Thanks go out to Mathew Day at Silverfox for his efforts.

The California Department of General Services in Sacramento was able to furnish the Core 2 Duo computers for the lab.

Computers for Classrooms configured all of the matching systems, supplied 17" LCD monitors, wiped the hard drives with Blancco, increased the memory to 2.0 GB, supplied keyboards, mice and cables, tested and cleaned everything and delivered the systems to the International Studies Academy.

Thanks to all of these organizations for coming together to enable the students of the International Studies Academy to once have access to technology in just three weeks time.
